Through a combination of vocational and life skills training and wrap-around services, the TRADE Program will seek to address the array of factors that increase recidivism rates by developing strong support networks which increases the likelihood of employment retention and reduces the likelihood of repeat criminal activity for newly released offenders. Vocational training programs will include: Construction/Carpentry, Forklift/Warehouse, Janitorial/Building Maintenance, and Institutional Food Service. Christian Heritage and JOLT Nebraska are partnering with The Center for People in Need to provide the life skills and recovery training necessary for successful reintegration. Courses will cover such topics as family outreach, common-sense parenting, communication skills, teamwork and self-help, financial literacy, resume writing, computer skills and job searching. Hope of Glory's Williams Prepared Place program is a transitional 18 bed living facility. We offer re-entry services to participants that include supportive services and substance abuse treatment for men and women during their transition. Our participants come to us from incarceration, parole, or under supervision of State/Federal Probation seeking to reintegrate back into the community. Our Life Skills Training consists of three components: (1) general self-management skills (that include hygiene housekeeping and financial management), (2) social skills, and (3) drug resistance skills. Williams Prepared Place's program attaches a high value on employment. Program personnel remove employment barriers by helping participants secure identification and/or driver's licenses, provide transportation to interviews, and assist in job searches and application/resume preparation, and liaison with employers. Preparation for employment is addressed by Williams Prepared Place not only on behalf of the prospective employee, but also on behalf of the employer. We attend not only to the life skills, career development and job training of individuals but also provide basic needs and support for the entire family.

Associated Builders and Contractors

ABC has valuable programs for reducing recidivism with the ability to provide pre-employment training through our safety programs. In addition, we will begin our program by teaching our Core Curriculum, the foundation course for all National Center for Construction Education Research (NCCER) apprenticeship training programs. The Core class will be followed by a building project that will allow the students to experience work based learning hands on applications in carpentry, plumbing, electrical, HVAC, drywall, roofing, finish carpentry and painting. The main goal of the work based learning project is to allow the students to determine their trade specific area of interest. Once they have established their specific trade interest they will enroll in a trade specific training program and complete the classroom portion of apprenticeship training, which allows individuals who are incarcerated to have a valuable background in the trades. This experience will give them the confidence to step back into the workforce upon release from incarceration.
